MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT : Storage and Handling - FNA 523 Fuel for J73D-20A Engine

25X1A

REFERENCE: [REDACTED] 000 (IN 30870)

1. As outlined in reference message, engine contractor testing reveals that thermal stability of subject fuel is adversely affected by contact with copper and/or silver. The magnitude of this effect is a function of and increases with copper/silver concentration, residence time, and temperature. Thermal stability therefore can be destroyed over long periods of time with very slight concentrations of copper or silver.

2. Special precautions will be required in the area of storage and handling tankage facilities and in the periodic cleaning of these facilities so that the use of cleaning equipment such as copper wire brushes is prohibited.
